Weather observations for January, taken at Colorado college, give an idea of the ... table ... ith; and Prof. ... summary and deductions make the article a very valuable one.

Edward A. Freeman, professor of history in Oxford college, continues his discussion of home rule in Ireland and elsewhere, and illustrates the workings of dependent governments of different kinds in a very interesting manner by the states and divisions of Austria.

The ... ess of American girls in Europe prove that not all American products receive the cold shoulder on the other side of the Atlantic. An article by "One of Them" shows that some of the gentlemen in French politics and social circles have succumbed to the charms of our countrywomen.

Kate Field, ..., Paris correspondent of the London Queen, writes of what things cost in the French capital. It will be found interesting and valuable to those who are contemplating a trip to Europe.

Jenny June discusses the labor question, paying especial attention to domestic help. Her ideas on this subject are both novel and interesting. She claims that the real mothers are not dead, but the players of social games, and that American work is dearer than the quality, or than in other countries.

Attention is paid to the birthdays of Lincoln, which occurs on Wednesday, by the publication of a special article containing facts and anecdotes of the martyred president. The usual space will be devoted to local matters and telegraphic news of the day.

The recent convention of the republican clubs of the country at New York has had the effect in perfecting the organization of the party. Since the convention adjourned over 300 clubs have been formed in various states. The influence of the organizations will have an important bearing upon the result of the next election.

Mayor Lee of Denver has again been making himself ridiculous by his statements regarding the gambling in that city. It appears from his statements to the newspapers that he had promised certain gambling houses immunity from arrest if they wished to open their rooms. The people of Denver are entitled to sympathy for having a mayor who has succeeded so fully in disgracing his office in such a short time.

The Philadelphia Press makes the following editorial remarks upon the proposed constitutional amendment having for its object a change in the time of the meeting of congress:

Congress is slow to propose, and the states even slower to ratify, amendments to the constitution, but the one about to be reported to the house changing the time of the annual meeting of congress to the first Monday in January, and making each congress expire on December 31 instead of March 4, has so much to commend it that there ought to be no doubt of its adoption. The democratic session of congress is practically wasted time, and might as well be abolished, but the great merit of the amendment is that it will convene each congress within two months of its election instead of thirteen months as now, and prevent the old congress from legislating after the people have chosen a new one. The present method by which each congress holds a three months session after many of its members have been refused a re-election and have, therefore, no sense of responsibility to their constituents, is a most pernicious one. A better scheme to promote vicious legislation and extravagant expenditure could not be devised and the country has enough evidence of this to desire a change.

The Denver News had a very ... article yesterday on "The Rule of Common Points" in answer to an editorial in the Denver Republican advising the Denver merchants to boycott the Chicago and Rock Island, if the road came here instead of Denver. The article has so much ... and fairness and is so good a discussion of the whole railroad situation in Colorado that we print it in full:

"From the Missouri river to Trinidad, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Denver, Greeley and Cheyenne, the schedule of freight rates is precisely the same, irrespective of the directness of route or distance transacted by any one of the railroads in the pool in making the haul from the river to the Rocky Mountain parallel. The Denver chamber of commerce does not oppose this rule, because it gives us the direct use of the Atchison Topeka and Missouri Pacific two lines which reach this parallel 120 miles to the south of Denver, and also the use of the Union Pacific, which reaches the parallel 110 miles to the north, to say nothing of the Burlington and Missouri which touches at Greeley, midway between Cheyenne and Denver, and also at Cheyenne. To balance the four lines mentioned Denver has only the Kansas Pacific, so that the operation of the parallel rule is decidedly in our favor, and should any merchant or number of merchants be foolish enough to oppose it the intelligent part of this community would rise in opposition, for the excellent reason that under the rule as it stands Denver is the gainer, and the Trinidad, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Greeley and Cheyenne merchants cannot say to their customers that better rates are given them than to the Denver merchants. In other words, under the every day working of the parallel rule, all the railroads mentioned end in Denver, and from this point distribute without prejudice as to distance over the parallel in question. In the absence of this essential rule it would not be possible to build up at Denver a general point of distribution, nor could our wholesale houses exist for a month on their present footing.

But now comes the Chicago and Rock Island with its Colorado branch incorporated by Denver capitalists and taxpayers, and proposes to do precisely what the other roads have done—reach the Rocky mountain parallel at the most convenient and economical point as demonstrated by their own maps, their trade programme and the ... of the right of way, suppose for a moment that the road selects the common junction—Colorado Springs at the south or Greeley on the north. Does it affect the proximity of both to Denver east of from direct connection with the Rock Island's trade territory? Certainly not, giving this point of delivery free access to the trains of the two roads terminating Colorado Springs on the one hand or Greeley on the other.

If we cannot obtain every concession with the parallel rule which exists in obedience to the laws of trade and in spite of a strict construction of the interstate commerce law, our answer must be ... and all the ... asking the Rock Island company an exception to the rule which exists in our favor, is the merest sop, an effusion of ... which the retailers of Denver, ourselves of the present and frank stand that have no right to endorse, because it strikes at the root of their own prosperity and takes away the pretensions of Denver as a distributing point and locality for wholesale business.

As the News has stated before, the Rock Island road is one of many running from the river to the Rocky mountain parallel, and whether it reaches that parallel first at Colorado Springs, Greeley or Denver can make no difference to the trade of this city, though it does make a difference to lands located on proposed rights of way within its limits. As we are not able to offer the Rock Island road a free right of way, or one at low cost from the city limits to the Union depot, we are estopped from impeding its choice of route, and can only regret that our ability to provide in this instance is not on a par with our wishes in the case as explained by the special committee of the chamber of commerce on their recent trip to Chicago.

MORE ASTOR STORIES.

This is the story substantially as the writer has heard it, and there are plenty of such.

When the Hudson River railroad, now the New York Central, was projected, it was difficult to get subscriptions to the stock, for few people believed it would prove remunerative. Merchants and real estate owners were induced to subscribe only on the score of possible benefit to the city and its business. The richest men, however, were "backward in coming forward," and many of them never contributed a dollar. The committee in charge of the matter elected their best talkers to wait on ... and put the subject before him, but the first ... of the speaker's ... He dwelt on the ... of real estate that would be sure to follow the construction of the ... "Ah, my dear sir," was the reply of the wily money maker, "if that is to be the effect, I have the road will never be built, for I am never a seller of real estate, but always a buyer."

The elder Astor took in the possible future of New York with ... and he ... to buy real estate and make a study of the subject before any one else had thought of it. Following the city in its upward growth, as fast as his accumulations enabled him to do so, he purchased great plots of ground which were at the time thought worthless and far beyond the reach of possible improvement.

As to the Astors' wealth, it is not easy for an estimate, if not without doubt, it is double that of Vanderbilt at the time of the latter's death, and will probably foot up $300,000,000.

Mr. J. R. Millard came down from his ranch on the north slope of the Hayden divide yesterday.

There is some talk of the organization in the city of another social club similar to the El Paso club.

Messrs. Callaway & Rankin have discontinued work in their brickyard until the weather becomes more settled.

The new Midland depot at Manitou has been occupied by Mr. W. C. Bradley, the agent, for some time past.

The crowning of the Queen of Fame will be given at the Congregational church next Friday night by Pueblo talent.

Rev. J. C. Hay, who attended the mite social at Mr. John Robertson's residence on Thursday evening, returned to Pueblo yesterday morning.

The plastering is now being done upon the Loretto academy building. It is expected that the structure will be fully completed in about two months.

The St. Francis hospital will be fully completed and ready for occupancy by March 1st. A force of fifteen carpenters are now completing the inside finishings.

The Green Mountain Falls Town and Improvement company have sold to E. F. McCloskey lot 10, block 211, for $750, and lot 1, block 132, to R. C. Bristol for $1600.

County Commissioner Woodbury came up from his ranch at Little Buttes yesterday. We are sorry to announce that several members of his family are seriously ill.

The following freight rates between this city and Chicago went into effect yesterday. First class, $2 10, second class, $1 80, third class, 1 41; fourth class, $1 10; fifth class, 96.

During the absence of Mr. F. E. Nelson, superintendent of the road department of the Midland, in the east the duties of the office will be discharged by the chief engineer of the road, Mr. B. H. Bryan.

The Manitou Electric Light company are daily expecting the arrival of a 100 horse power engine, which will be used in the operation of their plant. It is their intention to run the engine during the winter months and use the water power in the spring and summer.

By reference to another column it will be seen that Mr. J. O. Read, the proprietor of the popular Delmonico restaurant will commence to-morrow to inaugurate a change in the order of meals. On and after to-morrow lunch will be served from 12 to 2, and dinner from 5:30 to 8.

Mrs. G. W. Pollock, a missionary from India, will speak in the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Her subject will be "India's Women," their condition and the work carried on among them. All will be welcome, but children are especially invited. Mrs Pollock will have with her an India costume and some curiosities.

The Howard Athenaeum company is one of the largest on the road. They carry twenty-five people, and among them are such artists as the Four Arabs, the Brothers Fonte-Boni, Monsieur Claire, Sweeny and Riley, the Irwin sisters, Adams, Casey and Howard, Miss Lizzie Daly, Rexon and Robini, Hoey and Dailey, and Carl Hertz.

Miss M. Hanna, teacher of the Fourth grade, Lincoln school, has furnished us for publication the following roll of honor for that grade: Rosa Potthoff, Bertie Anderson, Addie Skinner, Rosa Cristy, Drusilla Belcher, Nellie Downs, Emma Cerana, Ollie Diltz, Fannie Richards, Anna Klespfer, Archie Danks, Jessie Nock, Frank Roberts.

A meeting of the stockholders of the People's Passenger Street Railway company was held yesterday morning. The following officers of the company were elected: President, Leopold Robertson; vice president, W. S. Nichols; secretary and treasurer, D. B. Fairley. The company have enough money already subscribed for stock to build the road as soon as the right of way is secured.

Yesterday morning a message was received of the accidental killing of the four year old son of Mr. Fred Lovejoy's brother-in-law, whose name is not recalled at this writing, near Colorado Springs. The child was playing on Tuesday afternoon. The day was stormy and near a log which was being sawed. As soon as it was out one of the press rolls lowered upon the child, killing him almost instantly. He will be buried in Evergreen cemetery to-day.

The first number of the Mountain Falls Echo, published by the Green Mountain Falls Town and Improvement company, was issued yesterday. It has a large illustrated heading showing among the scenery near the site of the proposed town of Green Mountain Falls, on the line of the Midland. It is printed on book paper and presents a pleasing appearance. It contains a large amount of interesting reading matter.

Mr. E. P. Moon of Husted has furnished us with the following weather record for the week ending February 1st. Highest temperature, 64 on the 26th and 28th, lowest temperature 16 on the 29th and 30th, highest daily mean temperature 48 on the 26th, lowest daily mean temperature 28 on the 30th; weekly mean temperature, 42 8. Prevailing direction of the wind, south; clearest days 27th and 30th; cloudiest days 28th and 29th.

The Boston Howard Athenaeum company who will appear in the opera house Monday evening continue to draw big houses at the Tabor Grand in Denver. The Republican of yesterday says: "There was a large audience at the Tabor last night. It thoroughly enjoyed the performance given by the Howard company, particularly the "Cocoon" illusion given by Professor Heitz. This is so truly poetic and beautiful that it would be unbecoming and altogether too commonplace to call it a trick. It is by long odds the most beautiful and artistic bit of legerdemain the stage knows. This one feature of the performance is worth going to see."

Mr. George W. Snider, the owner of the celebrated Grand Caverns at Manitou, is of the opinion that the new cave recently discovered on his property will prove to be another of Manitou's wonderful attractions. The cave is situated about 350 yards from the entrance to the Grand Caverns and a road can be easily constructed to it. Mr. Snider has begun the running of a tunnel which will strike the cave a considerable distance below where it was first discovered. Several years ago he believed that a cave existed in that particular locality and expended some time and money in digging for it. As soon as the extent of the new cave is known Mr. Snider will prepare it for the annual visitation of summer tourists. This recent discovery makes the number of caves at Manitou four, though Mr. Snider is confident that the entire mountain in which they are located abounds in caves.

The improvements and additions to the College Park conservatory which have been in progress for the past few weeks, are now about completed, and the establishment will now rank with any in the state in its appointments and facilities. The conservatory is covered by about 7000 feet of glass, divided into nine apartments or houses as follows: Five, fifty feet long, one, twenty-four feet long, one twenty-four feet square, and two eighty-five feet long. There are three rose houses which are entirely devoted to the cultivation of these plants. Among the varieties now in stock are Mermets, Marechal Neils, Bride, Bennetts, Jacqueminots, Bourbons, and La France. A number of the plants are steadily blooming, and in a few months the supply will be largely increased as Mr. Davidson the foreman, has recently set out several thousand plants which have attained a sure growth. The other flower houses are filled mostly with geraniums, carnations, hyacinths and all the other varieties of hot house plants. One apartment is devoted to the cultivation of fairly vegetables such as lettuce, parsley, radishes, etc. A variety of these vegetables is kept always on hand and the market has been supplied from the conservatory for several weeks past. There is also a room set aside for the growing of the different varieties of greens, vines, etc. The foreman has also succeeded admirably well in cultivating an odd variety of carnations, known as the buttercup carnations, which are peculiarly attractive. The conservatory is stocked with over a car load of pots. The interior of the establishment has been arranged in the most convenient manner possible. Board walks have been placed in all the houses and the heating facilities are first class. Mr. Davidson, who has charge of the plant and workings of the conservatory, is a florist of considerable ability, having had abundant experience in the business. All orders for floral work will be filled promptly and satisfactorily. Visitors are cordially welcomed to the conservatory at any time. Telephone number 1819.
